Advisory Committee To Diagnostic Lab Sets Meeting Friday

Research plans and effects of transition on diagnostic services will be among the agenda items at a meeting of the Citizens Advisory Council of the Murray State University Veterinary Diagnostic and Research Center in Hopkinsville Friday.

To begin at 9 a.m. at the center, the meeting will also include a budget report, a report of the Governor's Transition Committee, and election of new council officers.

The council meeting is the first since the facility was transferred by executive order of Gov. Julian M. Carroll from the Kentucky Department of Agriculture to Murray State University. His order became effective Jan. 1.

Members of the council represent both a professional and geographic cross-section of interests in the food animal production industry in West Kentucky.

Gov. Carroll recently ordered the establishment of the committee to assure that the two state animal diagnostic centers in Lexington and Hopkinsville remain accessible to the state Department of Agriculture.

The executive order instructs the committee to guarantee that the agriculture department and Kentucky farmers continue to receive the quantity and quality of services provided by the labs when the facilities were attached to the agriculture department.

The two labs were transferred from the Department of Agriculture last year. The Lexington center was placed under University of Kentucky (U.K.) authority, while Murray State University (M.S.U.) was given responsibility for the Hopkinsville facility.

The order further requires the committee to advise U.K., M.S.U. and the state Council on Higher Education on working agreements needed to assure coordination of activities and programs performed by each lab. The committee must also evaluate and recommend means of expanding the programs and physical facilities for research and educational purposes. It also will advise the Council on Higher Education regarding budget requests for the labs.

MSU Speakers Are Available To Public

More than 140 speakers and 430 topics are listed in the latest revision of the Murray State University Speakers' Bureau brochure, available upon request.

The 34-page brochure, with its 29 categories corresponding to specialized areas at the university offers program chairmen knowledgeable and qualified speakers on a vast variety of subjects ranging from agriculture to bass fishing.

Established four years ago as an educational service to the people of the university's four-state region, the bureau has provided speakers upon request for more than 125 meetings and special occasions each year.

Topics range from "The World Food Situation" by Dr. James T. Thompson, chairman of the Department of Agriculture, to the Arab-Israeli conflict by Dr. Farouk K. Umar, chairman of the Department of Political Science and Public Administration.

A copy of the latest speaker listings can be obtained by calling or writing the Office of Information and Public Services at the university.

Speakers also may be requested by name or topic through the same office. At least two weeks notice is required so all necessary arrangements may be made. There is no charge for a speaker provided by the university, and his or her expenses to and from the meeting are provided for from special funds set aside for the service.

"We are confident that within the group of speakers available through the Speakers Bureau at Murray State, a civic or organizational program chairman can find a topic and speaker listed to fit his or her specific needs," said M. C. Garrott, director of Information and Public Services at Murray State. "And we do hope every program chairman in the region will request a copy of the brochure."

'Newspaper In Classroom' Workshop Slated

An eight-day Newspaper in the Classroom Workshop designed to prepare teachers to use newspapers more fully as a learning resource is scheduled at Murray State University June 19-28.

To be offered for three semester hours of graduate credit as Elementary Education 604 or Secondary Education 613, the workshop is coordinated by the Center for Innovation and Development at Murray State in cooperation with three newspapers — the Memphis Commercial Appeal, Mayfield Messenger, and Murray Ledger and Times.

Dr. John Taylor, chairman of the Department of Instruction and Learning at Murray State, will be the workshop instructor.

Dr. Doris Helge, director of the Center for Innovation and Development, said the newspaper in education technique is becoming more widely employed because:

— Using newspapers in instruction is effective and inexpensive with children of any age or ability if objectives are determined in advance.

— It creates interest in the community and larger world while improving reading and other academic abilities.

— This instructional methodology has become known as one of the most reality-based forms of education in practice.

She said the three sponsoring newspapers are contributing resources for consultants representing both newspapers and education, as well as for materials, newspapers, mailing, a field trip to the Mayfield Messenger, and scholarships for leaders to implement the concept in local school districts.

A newspaper in education workshop was conducted on the campus in 1977, and teachers were involved in developing an understanding of the rationale and methodology and in designing materials for classroom use.

Dr. Helge added that principles and methodologies of career education will be infused into the program this year as both newspaper in education and career education concepts are oriented toward alternative and reality-based forms of teaching.

To enroll, potential participants should send name, address, telephone number, and social security number to: Philip Deaver, Center for Continuing Education, Sparks Hall, Murray State University, Murray, Ky., 42071.

BAG O' LITTER DAY—Tommy Brown, manager of The Murray Theatres, may be saying, "What am I going to do with all this litter?" Brown will be getting plenty of litter this weekend when Capri Theatre sponsors a "Bag O' Litter" show Saturday afternoon from 2:30 to 4:30. The price of admission is a grocery bag filled with litter picked up in your neighborhood. "Yours, Mine and Ours" starring Lucille Ball and Henry Fonda is the film that will be shown. Although aimed at pre-teen and young teenagers, anyone will be admitted free if they bring a bag of litter. The Murray Sanitation System will have a collection truck at the theatre to take care of the litter collected. Standing with Brown is (from left) Dean Shoemaker, Brown, Lisa Shoemaker and Holly Brown (foreground).

Plans Finalized For Countywide Clean-up

Janice Austin, coordinator for the county-wide clean up, said the official dumping sites in Murray will be the First Baptist Church parking lot, downtown, the old city park parking lot, Chestnut Street, and the Bel-Air Shopping Center parking lot, 641 South, Saturday.

Four trucks will be located in the county in the area of the Penny Store, Uncle Willie's Trading Post at Midway, the New Concord Grocery and the Old Faxon School.

One person from each clean-up group, either in the city or the county, may pick up litter bags before Saturday at the Calloway County Garage on east Sycamore Street, extended. Individuals or groups with full bags in the city can take them to the dumping site nearest. County clean-up workers may leave their litter bags on the side of the road to be picked up by one of the county trucks.

Austin has also suggested that clean-up workers wear gloves this Saturday.

All participants may pick up a free Burger Queen coupon at the old city park on the day of the clean-up.

Groups participating are the Alpha Delta Pi sorority, Boy Scout Troop 77, 45 and 13, Juvenile Work Detail, Baptist Youth Group, DECA Club, Wildlife Society, Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, Calloway County Young Democrats, Maranatha Christian Center, Beta Club, area Girl Scouts and the Isaac Walton League.

Charity Horse Show Set Here At Expo Center

At least 118 horses are pre-registered for the Annual Kentucky State Charity Horse Show Friday and Saturday at West Kentucky Livestock Show and Exposition Center.

But, a spokesman for the annual show sponsored by Sigma Department of Murray Woman's Club and Murray Rotary Club, says more entrants are expected.

The show begins each evening at 7:30 in the exposition center located on College Farm Road in Murray.

"We have 118 stalls filled and that means people who own the horses have traveled a distance and will spend at least two nights here. We'll have more (horses) but these we are sure of," the spokesman said.

Tickets are currently on sale for the show and can be purchased from Rotary Club or Sigma Department members, or can be purchased at the door on the night of the show. General admission is $3 with children under 6 let in free.

Horse show enthusiasts from throughout the South and Midwest are expected. The 1977 show drew entrants from eight states, including Ohio, Tennessee, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Massachusetts and Kentucky. More entrants from more states are expected this year, a spokesman said.

Thirty-two classes will compete in this year's show, 16 classes each evening. Classes that will show Friday night include: Open Pleasure Pony, Two Year Old Walking Fillies, Amateur Three Gaited Horse, Ladies Amateur Walking Horse, Amateur Roadster Pony To Bike, Equitation, Slow Racking Horse, Three Year Old Walking Horse, Junior Three Gaited Horse, Amateur Hackney Pony, Equitation, Show Pleasure Walking Horse, Junior Five Gaited Horse, Open Fox Trot Horse, Walking Horses 15.2 Or Under Open and Amateur Five Gaited Horse.

And on Saturday night classes include: American Saddlebred Three Gaited Pleasure Horse, Two Year Old Walking Stallions and Geldings, Open Roadster Pony, Amateur Walking Horse Open, American Saddlebred Five Gaited Pleasure Horse, Style Racking Horse, Open Fine Hackney Pony, Juvenile Walking Horse, U.P.H.A. Challenge Cup Equitation, Open Three Gaited Horse, Four Year Old Walking Horse, Fine Hackney Horse, Open Racking Horse, Road Horse To Bike, Open Walking Horse and Open Five Gaited Horse.

Persons connected with the show said it has an impact on Murray. Entrants come to the city and stay overnight in motels and eat in local restaurants. Some entrants see the city for the first time. A majority of the equestrian enthusiasts are business, agricultural and professional people in their respective communities. Some entrants are young people who get to see Murray State University.

Money raised from the show goes to each club's charity activities. The event last year raised over $4,300.

County Employees' Salaries Open Record

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Under Kentucky's Open Records Law, the salaries of and other information about county employees must be provided to citizens who request it, the attorney general's office says.

In another advisory released Wednesday, it said a local school board may vote on proposed litigation in a closed session despite the Kentucky Open Meetings Law.

Assistant Attorney General Carl Miller sent the open records opinion to Estill Judge Executive Ralph McClanahan at Irvine. The judge cited the "Privacy Act of 1974" in his letter to the attorney general's office, and also said that no lists exist on employee pay.

"The Privacy Act is a part of the federal administrative procedure statute," Miller replied. "The provisions apply only to federal agencies (and have) no bearing on state agencies."

He reiterated that the open records statute requires a public agency to allow inspection of all its records unless they are exempted.

"Public Records pertaining to the position and salary of public employees are not exempted from inspection," Miller said.

McClanahan, along with his letter sent a copy of an executive order he issued setting forth rules and regulations on open records.

Miller noted that one rule says no written information can leave the county judge's office unless the letter of request indicates for what reason it's needed and for what purpose it is to be used.

"We must point out that the open records statute does not require (a) reason for (a) request to inspect or copy public records," Miller said.

"We believe your executive order is in error in requiring a statement of a reason before allowing copying of a record."

The open meetings advisory went to Hart County School Superintendent Leland Gregory at Munfordville, who mentioned a school board discussion of a lawsuit not involving students.

He asked if the board could vote in closed session, and when the board minutes had to be made public.

"The (open meetings) procedure does not have to be followed when the subject of the meeting is pending litigation against or on behalf of a public agency," Miller responded. "It does not make any difference what the subject of the litigation is."

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake

FOR FRIDAY, APRIL 21, 1978

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

You may overreach your mark now because of anxiety or miscalculation. Try to avoid this by taking things in stride and following routine at an easy pace.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21)

Wait for cues before launching any project. An activity-happy person such as yourself can get into difficult situations if not alert.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)

Be on guard now. There are situations and people who would detour you from your proper route. This is the type of day that sends daydreamers off on unprofitable tangents.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)

Day may seem unmanageable but, with calm demeanor and efforts commensurate with obligations, this diamond-in-the-rough period can be polished beautifully.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)

Assignments may seem odd but, with a double-check, you will find those from due authority quite rewarding. Don't waste good effort trying to hit a poor target.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Some contention about YOU can be a stabilizer so, with your best logic, do your best to restore harmony.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Some intrigue about. Don't become involved. Concentrate on your own objectives and you won't have time to get into dubious activities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

No matter what activities you planned for this day, you may have to mark time until others are ready. But don't fret; use the time for reevaluating.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Go about your affairs with zeal and confidence since there is little likelihood of difficulty. Be guided by past experience, however.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

A relatively smooth period — once you get the gist of trends and go ahead at a steady tempo. Personal relationships highly favored.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

A splendid day for innovations and experimentation. Don't hesitate to pioneer in new fields, and with new methods.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

If a financial transaction is up for consideration, and you entertain even the slightest doubt, better postpone action. There COULD be something to those hunches of yours.

YOU BORN TODAY are a sensitive, imaginative individual; endowed with a great love of beauty and marked manual dexterity. Benevolent toward your fellowmen, you often become physicians, nurses and workers in humanitarian causes. You also have a deep love for family and home; are a traditionalist at heart and extremely proud of your heritage. The arts appeal to you and, properly trained, you could make a great success as a writer, designer, interior decorator or painter. Other fields suited to your talents: teaching, horticulture, dancing, lecturing. Traits to curb: obstinacy and a tendency to be dogmatic. Birthdate of: Queen Elizabeth II, of England; H. A. Taine, French critic, historian; Charlotte Bronte, Eng. novelist.

FEWER FARMERS "Never have so few fed so many" says Bob Berglund, Secretary of Agriculture. In the 10-year period between 1960 and 1970, the number of farmers dropped from more than 15 million to less than 10 million.

MISS YOUR PAPER? Subscribers who have not received their home-delivered copy of The Murray Ledger & Times by 5:30 p.m. Monday, Friday or by 3:30 p.m. on Saturdays are urged to call 753-1916 between 5:30 p.m. and 6 p.m. Monday-Friday, or 3:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. Saturdays, to insure delivery of the newspaper. Calls must be placed by 6 p.m. weekdays or 4 p.m. Saturdays to guarantee delivery.

Observations

By Lochie Hart

First Christian Church To Observe 120th Anniversary

The First Christian Church here is in the process of making ready for the observation of her 120th birthday. The date is set for July 15 and 16. Preston Holland is chairman of the planning committee. Others on the committee are Auburn Wells, Lucille Austin, Lochie Hart, Dr. David Roosevelt, minister, Jean Flemming, president of Women's Organization, and Walter Apperson, chairman of the church board.

Mrs. Austin is sending letters of invitation to members and former members who are away, and reports that she is receiving favorable answers. A reception is scheduled for Saturday, a dinner that evening, and church service on Sunday.

It is hoped that the church history that is in the making will be ready for distribution for the occasion. Neva Grey Albritton is in charge of commemorative plates and tiles, showing the church in color. These will be ready for the homecoming.

Don McCord has researched and written the history of the church from 1858 through 1873 to be included in the history. The devotion and program of church activities of the early Christians as he found them are interesting.

"The congregation of Christ at Murray was organized out of the fragments of a similar body here-tofore existing in Murray, but for the last seven or eight years was disorganized and broken up by the removal and death of some of the members and the lukewarmness of others. (The War between the States added to the disruption.) Meetings were held in homes.

In the interval of time anterior to the collection of the present body of Disciples, there had been occasional preaching by transient brethren of the Reformation, with no apparent good results.

About 1857 Brother James Lindsey of Marshall County who had been engaged by the congregation at Green Plains, would occasionally stop by the way and preach for the people and scattered brethren in and about Murray. Being himself, apparently one of the most devoted and pious of men and an able expounder of the ancient Gospel, he always left a good and often a deep and solemn impression on the brethren and general public.

"Meanwhile Sister Emily Curd, A.M. Wadlington and others having put on Christ by confession and baptism there was an awakening of the dry bones of the scattered members, and those who loved God, began to speak to one another and give full manifestation of spiritual life and a disposition to promote the cause of Christ and Godliness and the happiness of one another, which prompted and called for their organization into a legitimate congregation of Christ and Temple of the Holy Spirit.

"This happy result took place in Murray, Calloway County Kentucky, on Saturday, April 3, 1858 out of the following, and through Brother Lindsey as the evangelist and Brother J. B. Grim, acting as assistant: "A. M. Wadlington, Charles and Susan Stephenson, Peter and Nancy Wymore, W. H. and Emily Curd, R. R. McDermot, J. L. and Adeline Utterback, P. H. Beckham, Sally Wear, Emily W. Malone, F. F. Staples and Sarah A. Ryab.

"On the next Sunday, April 4, James and Martha McKnight, E. A. McKnight, George Wymore and Juliet Boggs took membership.

"Then on May, the next preceding day, D. R. Robertson, Louisa Robertson, Alsay Robertson and R. Boggs were added."

The records reveal that they continued to meet upon the first day of the week to sing, to pray, to break bread, and to contribute of their means.

Once a month Brother Lindsey would visit them. Services were held on Saturday afternoon, Saturday night, Sunday morning and Sunday night. Additions to the church are recorded frequently. Such notations as this follows almost after every service: "At the close of the service, Brother and Sister made the good confession and will be baptised Monday morning at 8 o'clock in Clark's River near the Concord bridge."

The following excerpts from the clerk's minutes tell of the gradual development of the organizations: "At a called meeting Saturday, November 20, 1858, Bro. W. H. Curd, presiding, after prayer and praise, Bro. R. C. Utterback and Peter Wymore were appointed to take up a contribution for the benefit of Bro. James Lindsey, present evangelist.

A committee of finance was also appointed consisting of Bros. R. J. Martin, James McKnight and Boggs. Bearing the date of August 7, 1859, we find this notation: "W. H. Curd and R. Boggs, having been chosen at the time before, were set apart by fasting and prayer and the imposition of hands, as elders of the congregation, Charles Stephenson and David Robertson were in the same way set apart as deacons of the congregation by Brother Lindsey, evangelist in home, but was compelled to submit to the will of her husband, which she thought was her duty. The voice of the congregation decided she had but done her duty, acting in obedience to the will of her husband, though contrary to her convictions. The brother's case was briefly stated. He responded by giving a history of the difficulty, acknowledging that he had "suffered himself to resent an insult given him on the street, by two or three blows with a chair." He asked the congregation to forgive him, saying he would try to do so no more, and resigned as elder. The congregation unanimously forgave him and retained him as an elder. more to follow

Community Should Support Horse Show

There's an old saying that goes something like this: "For want of a nail the shoe was lost, for want of a shoe the horse was lost" and it goes on eventually to say that the battle was lost.

Well after months of preparation this weekend will finally see the second enactment of the Kentucky State Charity Horse Show, a gala affair sponsored by the Sigma Department of the Murray Woman's Club and the Rotary Club of Murray. And if there is anything lacking in this year's showing it definitely won't be because these two organizations forgot to "nail" down a minor detail.

If there is a nail missing it will be the one that John Q. Public holds in his hands, for when the curtain lifts on opening night in the Western Kentucky Livestock and Exposition Center off College Farm Road, Mr. Public will have determined if the show will be presented to a packed crowd or not.

Sure it's a charity affair! And sure there might seem to be a charity affair looking for funds at almost every corner one turns. But there is a difference with the Kentucky State Charity Horse Show.

What's the difference? Well with most charity drives you find yourself on a one way street dealing out your hard earned cash with little chance for anything in return.

And that's where the horse show differs! Sure you will deal out your cash in the purchase price of a ticket and sure it goes to something worthwhile for the community as evidenced by the contributions the two sponsoring organizations have made to individuals and the overall community good in the past.

But to and behold you get something in return, the pomp, the beauty of some of the state's finest horses paraded and promenaded for your entertainment, and for the prizes they hope to attain.

Horse lover or not, it is definitely something different, and it offers the opportunity for a relaxing evening away from the television.

And it offers a chance to see why horses have almost come to be synonymous with Kentucky. After all, Kentucky is the Blue Grass State, and blue grass country is the heart of the Kentucky horse raising industry. Isn't it?

So nail down your seat for the activities taking place this Friday and Saturday nights. But do it before someone else decides to "nail" down his own spot at the Kentucky State Charity Horse Show.

Counting Cars And Jogging Early Morning Walking Games

With the arrival of spring, I have resumed early morning walking for exercise. Since April 1, I have missed only one morning making the 3 1/2-mile trek from our place on Circarama to town, around the courthouse and back to my easy chair and the morning paper.

It takes me an hour, and I try to be passing under the Bank of Murray clock right at 6 a.m. and about the time the bell in the Methodist Church tower strikes that hour.

At the moment, I've logged 69 1/2 miles since April 1, and the soreness has just about left my rather reluctant muscles. I had planned to start walking again March 1 after the winter layoff, but we still had some rather chilly weather in March. So, I postponed this until April 1.

That wasn't a moment too early, either, as some of the 23 pounds I had labored so hard to drop last year had begun to creep back around my mid-section.

Dr. Jim Byrn is a faithful walker in our neighborhood.

Year-round, almost every morning he passes the house about 7 a.m. with his big German shepherd happily bounding along at his side. Jim runs and walks about 2 1/2 miles across country every day, going to Clark's River and back. Despite the bitter cold of last winter, he stuck with his program, bundling up and striking out right on schedule each morning. It was all I could do some of those mornings to

Jimmy's White House

Inspections Find White House Hazards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Come to think of it, who ever heard of a fire marshal inspecting the White House for fire hazards?

It does happen, and on a regular basis. What's more, the latest inspection turned up what was judged to be a threat to public safety.

Before getting into that, White House inspectors aren't carried out like those in most public buildings. The fire marshal doesn't get to poke around on his own in searching for fire code violations.

When the White House is involved, inspectors from the District of Columbia Fire Department are accompanied by plenty of chaperones.

First of all, the Secret Service, which is responsible for the president's safety, is responsible for the president's safety. It is responsible for the president's safety. It is responsible for the president's safety.

As a result of the latest inspection, GSA workers are installing two lighted "Exit" signs in the White House press center. These point the way to a rear exit formerly marked only by a printed red and white sign that reads, "Emergency Exit Only — WARNING — Opening Door Sounds Alarm."

Skip Holcomb, a White House aide, said the inspectors felt the press center is used by many people who might, in an emergency, be unaware of the rear exit, which is tucked into a dark corner.

Holcomb, who joined the staff last year, said he did not know why the signs weren't installed sooner. The press center, after all, was built in 1970.

Still bereft of such signs are the East get out and get the paper.

Another regular walker over our way is Earl Nanney, 1105 Fairlane. Mr. Nanney leaves home about 6 a.m. generally and walks the Circarama, Bagwell area for half an hour or so.

We all have our little "games" to help pass the time while doing this early morning exercise. For example, the other morning, Mr. Nanney and I met at South 11th and Fairlane, both headed home. As we visited there for a few minutes, something was said about the great number of cars you see parked near Murray homes.

The next day I counted the ones I passed on my usual route—in driveways, yards, garages and under carports. There were 317 of them! And I didn't count any after I passed the old Swann home on Main Street until I had reached Doug's Wallace's office on South 8th. That's a lot of cars on only a few streets.

Another game I play is trying to do a little jogging without killing myself. Pete Panzera and George Lilly — and certainly distance runner Adam Lanning — will laugh at this, but it works for me. I feel about jogging a lot like the old Tom Cat did after his evening with the lady skunk. I would like to do more of it, but a little is about all I can stand.

On April 1, I started jogging at Story and South 11th and managed to go only a couple hundred yards, the distance of two or three utility poles. Every few days since, I have tried to increase distance of another pole until now I'm making it across Sycamore and three of four poles past Fred Pogue's place before I have to start walking again.

My goal is to jog all the way from Story and 11th to Poplar, a run of perhaps 1/4 of a mile, without stopping, huffing and puffing.

Seldom a morning passes that something unusual — and generally humorous — doesn't happen. One morning soon after I had left the house, I was striding along (I won't say where) when I noticed an elderly lady come out the front door of a home down the street.

Her hair was up in rollers. She had on house slippers and her gown was flapping around her ankles as she clutched a robe tightly about her. I thought she was coming out to get her paper, as many, including T. Waldrop, do as I pass.

But, no. She was headed for another house on the street. With her head ducked against the wind, she headed in my direction when she reached the curb. No doubt, she thought that surely no one would be on the street at that ungodly hour to see her in all that get-up. Women are like that.

When she was about 30 feet from me, she looked up and you would have thought I was a prehistoric monster of something! She almost climbed the tree on her side of the street before she regained her composure and hastened past without a word.

The most difficult part about early morning walking is getting started. If I can make it to the street, I've got it made. And, some of these mornings are beautiful. The sun comes up about 5:50 a.m., just about the time I hit Main Street at Memorial Baptist. It is something to behold, the glowing orange ball seemingly coming up out of the earth between the Bank of Murray and Twin Lake Office Supply.

That'll change though, when Daylight Saving Time rolls around in a couple weeks, but it's good to be able to be out there whenever it does make its appearance.

And, for that I am thankful.

Today In History

By The Associated Press Today is Thursday, April 20, the 110th day of 1978. There are 255 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1775, the siege of Boston began in the American Revolution.

On this date: In 1657, Jews in New Amsterdam were granted equal rights and privileges of citizens.

In 1662, Connecticut was granted a royal charter extending to the Pacific Ocean.

In 1836, Congress established the Territory of Wisconsin.

In 1889, Adolf Hitler was born in Austria.

In 1934, Shirley Temple was launched on her career as a child star as the film, "Stand Up and Cheer," was released. In 1939, a World's Fair opened in New York.

Ten years ago: A new prime minister, Pierre Trudeau, took office in Canada.

Five years ago: The United States resumed military reconnaissance flights over North Vietnam despite a ban on the flights in the Vietnam cease-fire agreement.

One year ago: A national energy policy designed to bring major changes in some of the ways that Americans live and work was proposed by President Carter in a broadcast speech before a joint session of the House and Senate. Today's birthday: Nuclear physicist Alvin Weinberg is 63 years old. The Spanish painter, Joan Miro, is 85. Thought for today: New discoveries in science will continue to create a thousand new frontiers for those who still would adventure — President Herbert Hoover, 1874-1964.

'Stocks Are Cheap' Says Market Adviser

NEW YORK (AP) — Since 1929, investors have been willing to pay on average about 1.5 times the book value of the blue-chip stocks that make up the Dow Jones industrial average.

Before the price spurt of last Friday and early this week, those same stocks were selling at less than book value. In percentage terms, prices since 1929 have averaged 150 percent of book value; at the recent market low of 742 points, they were selling for just 87 percent of paid-in capital and retained earnings.

For this and other reasons, John Wright was one of those rarities who consistently forecast a rise in the prices of blue chips amidst the gloomy news of budget deficits, dollar declines and trade imbalances.

Only twice before, said Wright, have market values fallen so low: In 1932, when there were no earnings and often no dividends either, and in 1974, when we had Watergate, recession and sharply higher oil prices.

Recently, he said, the bad news has not been of the same magnitude. It has been bad enough, he concedes, but he feels we overestimated the inflation potential and unfairly downgraded presidential efforts.

"Criticism of President Carter has been mostly unjustified," Wright said this week from Bridgeport, Conn., where Wright Investors' Service invests multimillion-dollar pension and endowment funds.

"Carter really hasn't provided glamorous leadership," he said, "but his moves have been correct and gradually they are going to improve things."

Wright believes G. William Miller, new chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, will help set the economy on the right road. "He will be more positive, more effective than Arthur Burns," he said.

Despite all the acclaim the former chairman received, Burns was a pedagogue, a man who consistently endangered the economy in his mistaken efforts to correct imbalances, said Wright.

He fully expects that from now on the nation's imbalance of international payments slowly will be corrected, and that Miller will be successful in returning stability to foreign exchange markets.

If these efforts fail, however, he foresees a crisis developing in the next three or four years. Regardless, there is enough security during the next two years for the stock market to rise, he believes.

Wright, whose firm also advises bank trust departments, doubts the president's call for voluntary restraints will be effective and that eventually wage and price restraint will be through tax incentives.

He does not, however, view this in a negative sense, either for the economy or for the stock market. Americans, he suggested, understand and respond to such financial attractions.

Where does the market go from here? His forecast is for 1200 points on the Dow Jones industrial average "within a year or two — I doubt it will happen this year," and 1500 points five years from now "without any trouble."

He held that view before the sudden inflow of institutional and foreign money in recent days, and he is sticking to it now. "Stocks are cheap," he insists.

Managing Cataracts

Q: Mr. O.V., who writes that he is a little over 65 years of age, thought that he needed to have his glasses changed because he could not see as well as before with one of his eyes. When he was examined, he was advised by the eye specialist that although a cataract was forming, there was not enough growth to require surgery at this time. Mr. O.V. asks whether he can take medicine or any other treatment to relieve the cataract or prevent its getting worse. If his vision worsens, he wants to know if surgery is the only satisfactory treatment.

A: Why cataracts form in one person and not in another is not completely understood. They are more common in the later years of life. Occasionally, a blow against the eye may injure the lens and cause the formation of a cataract even in a young person.

No medicine applied locally in the eye or taken into the system can prevent the formation of a cataract, or slow development once a cataract is begun. Some cataracts grow very slowly; others develop to a certain stage then spontaneously arrest their growth or slow down. In such cases, unless the vision is significantly impaired, no further treatment is necessary.

If the cataract develops so that a person cannot carry on his ordinary routine, surgical treatment may be required. Fortunately, it is usually successful in restoring vision when done by an experienced ophthalmologist who regularly does such surgery.

You should follow the advice of your eye specialist. The needs of each case have to be individually evaluated to determine whether surgery is needed. UPGRADING HEALTH CARE IN JAILS

Q: Mr. E.D. requests information about help from the medical profession in the standardization and improvement of health care of prisoners in jails.

A: For several years, the American Medical Association has sponsored the Jail Health Care project. The AMA has a committee, the National Jail Health Care Advisory Committee, which is now reviewing recommendations, applications and jail survey materials. They will be in a position to offer accreditation to jails that fulfill the requirements. These requirements will be based on several years of study by the staff and certain physician members of the AMA.

Additional information can be obtained by writing to the Jail Health Care Project, American Medical Association, 535 North Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois 60610.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Gov. Julian Carroll has announced a number of changes in his administration, including appointment of Mike Helton, his chief administrative assistant, as secretary for public protection and regulation beginning May 1.

Helton, 29, has been with Carroll since he took office and has been involved with the governor's scheduling.

The cabinet post had been in charge temporarily of Cabinet Secretary James Gray since the resignation months ago of John C. Roberts.

These are the other changes announced:

Gene Peter, a state environmental official the past two years, returns to the governor's office as deputy secretary of the cabinet.

Frank Harscher III, who has been a special aide to the governor, was named deputy secretary for administration of the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection.

Henry Vance, now an aide to Cabinet Secretary Gray, takes Helton's place with the governor May 1.

Robert Babbage Jr., who had been under Harscher, takes over Harscher's old post.

Details Revealed On Paducah's Convention Center

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — A proposed $12 million convention center complex for the downtown area will be located along Second Street between Broadway and Monroe Street, according to local officials.

Details of the proposed plan revealed Wednesday include a $5 million investment by the Wellington Group of Companies, headquartered in Grand Junction, Tenn., for a 16-story, 150-room hotel.

The Kentucky Convention Center Commission Fund is expected to supply $4 million of the cost, while $3 million is anticipated from the federal government.

The main convention center would include 50,000 square feet and a capacity of 1,800 persons for dinner affairs and 2,200 for meetings. The area would also include a shopping mall.

No dates were announced for beginning construction. The majority of the land on which the complex is proposed currently is owned by federal materials company.

Frank Paxton, chairman of the Paducah Convention Center Board, has said that the land could become available without the board having to begin condemnation proceedings.

the president's anti-inflation crusade.

Leaders of the unions representing 554,000 workers begin talks today with Postal Service management — the first national negotiations since President Carter's anti-inflation speech last week.

Carter urged unions and industry to hold wage and salary increases "significantly below the average rate for the last two years."

"We don't intend to go along with any guideline that was invented just in time to apply to us," Emmet Andrews, president of the American Postal Workers Union, said in an interview.

"The White House didn't come up with anything like this when it was taking a big role in the coal miners' negotiations."

Carter last month endorsed the settlement that brought miners wage and benefit gains of nearly 40 percent over three years.

"My members have had to put up with inflation that we did not cause. We are all for reducing inflation because it hurts us too, but the sacrifices should not be just by postal workers. Coming after the coal miners' contract, the White House timing on this could hardly be worse," said Andrews, whose union represents 299,000 workers.

The executive council of the 181,000-member National Association of Letter Carriers, in a resolution passed after Carter's speech, objected to his effort to limit the union's demands.

In another interview before the negotiations, Lonnie L. Johnson, director of the 36,000-member mail handlers division of the Laborers International Union, said, "We don't want to be the scapegoats."

Life Saving Course To Begin Monday

The American Red Cross advanced life saving course will begin Monday, April 24 at 6 p.m. at the Murray State University pool.

The 19 hour class is open to the public and provides certification required for a lifeguard's position. Anyone wanting to complete the requirements should enroll by calling 753-1421.

According to a Red Cross spokesman, the course is the only one that will be offered in advanced lifesaving this spring and summer.

Heavy Fines In Store For State Drivers Violating Traffic Laws

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Motorists traveling through Kentucky after June 19 are warned to be very careful about violations or carry plenty of cash.

A stop sign violation, for example, will cost $52.50.

Don Cetrulo, an attorney with the Administrative Office of the Courts in Frankfort, said the reason for the change is a loss of federal funds to sponsor the state's 15 percent police incentive pay.

The incentive pay program, funded through Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grants, gave police in city and county departments bonuses of 15 percent of their regular pay for attending approved training classes.

Kentucky State Police are not affected by the change in funding because they have their own training program.

The new fine schedule, which boosts most offenses by $15, will not go to the courts, Cetrulo said. Instead, the money will go to the state's general fund. The intent of the legislature is that it will be used for incentive pay, Cetrulo said.

Campbell County Circuit Court Clerk Ed Blau explained that the $52.50 fine for the stop sign violation includes $25 for the fine, up from $10, plus court costs of $27.50.

Speeding fines will be on a different schedule, Blau said.

The basic fine is $17.50. But there will be a fine of $1 per mile over the limit for the first five miles per hour, $16 per mile for the next five over and $17 for every mile over after that.

Mel Otten, manager of the Northern Kentucky branch of the American Automobile Association, said the AAA is seeking more information to pass on to members.

Blau said he wanted to make it clear that the courts have nothing to do with the increase.

"It all goes into police incentive pay," Blau said.

How to get money out of your house without selling it.

You simply come to us for a real estate loan backed by your equity.

Equity is the difference between how much your home is worth, and what you owe on it.

It's a valuable asset you can use to back a really big loan. For whatever you have in mind.

Real estate values are up, up, up.

So the house you bought just a few years ago probably would sell for a lot more than you paid.

Which means your equity is bigger. And the bigger your equity, the more you can borrow in a large real estate loan. Right here. Right now.

So the equity in your house is like money in your pocket.

Call us. We've got your loan.

Body Found In Italian Lake Not That Of Kidnapped Moro

ROME, Italy (AP)—A body was found today in the mountain lake where police are searching for kidnapped political leader Aldo Moro, but it was identified as that of a resident of the nearby town of Corvaro, police sources said.

Meanwhile, the Red Brigades, the terrorist organization that kidnapped Moro five weeks ago, killed a prison guard in Milan and made arson and bomb attacks in other Italian cities.

Skindivers found the body in ice-cold Lake Duchessa, 72 miles northeast of Rome, on the third day of searching after a message Tuesday said the former premier and president of the Christian Democratic Party had been executed and his body dumped there.

The body was identified as that of a 45-year-old Corvaro man who had been suffering from a nervous breakdown and had been missing from his home for several days, police sources said.

A flurry of telephone calls to news media, purporting to come from the Red Brigades, said the message announcing Moro's execution was false. The callers all said Moro had been executed but not dumped in Lake Duchessa. But the callers gave different times for the execution and did not say where the body could be found.

The police said they would continue to search Lake Duchessa and nearby lakes and ponds until they determined whether Moro's body was there.

As the search continued without a trace of the missing man, there was growing speculation that the message Tuesday was a hoax. Interior Minister Francesco Cossiga said experts found it had the same features as six previous communiqués from the kidnapers. But he said the delay in finding the body and a few other details prompted doubts about the authenticity of the message.

The terrorists' latest victim was Francesco de Cataldo, 53, who was shot by three men as he was leaving for work at Milan's San Vittore Prison.

The killers escaped in a car. A few minutes later, a telephone caller to an Italian news agency said he was speaking for the Red Brigades and announced: "We have executed officer Francesco de Cataldo, on duty at the San Vittore prison as a torturer of prisoners."

During the night, extremists hurled bombs and fired shots at a Rome military compound that included the home of Gen. Alberto Della Chiesa, a top anti-terrorist expert. Two small bombs also were thrown at the residence of Carlo Reviglio della Venaria, a retired district attorney who used to work with Della Chiesa. No casualties were reported.

Police also reported finding papers in a Red Brigades den they uncovered in Rome Tuesday listing recent kidnappings for ransom. Police said the Moro kidnapping and other activities of the terrorists were financed by the $1.6 million ransom paid for the release of Genoa shipowner Pietro Costa last year after almost three months of captivity.

North Pleasant Grove To Install Pastor Sunday

The North Pleasant Grove Cumberland Presbyterian Church, located on the Roy Graham Road, will have regular services Sunday with Sunday School at 10:00 a.m. with classes for all ages, and the subject, "The Ministry of Visitation."

A service of installation will be conducted at 7:00 p.m. with a Commission appointed by Mayfield Presbytery of which the local church is a member to install the Rev. Franklin as church pastor.

Rev. Franklin recently came to North Pleasant Grove from the First Cumberland Church in Providence. At the Sunday night's service the Rev. O. T. Arnett will preach the sermon, the Rev. A. J. Terry will ask the questions, and the Rev. W. Ed. Glover, retired church minister, will give the charge.

This is one of the few instances where a retiring pastor is privileged to give the charge to the new pastor. Rev. Glover retired as church pastor in October of last year after serving for some twenty years. This is the first installation service for several years due to the length of the last pastoral relationship.

The members of the church invite all friends of the community to come and share this time with them, a church spokesman said.

Wife Suspects His Luncheon Sessions

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a clergyman, but I'm not disclosing the denomination because this is a small town. A few months ago, he started counseling a young woman in an effort to save her marriage. (I'll call her "Mrs. J.") Last week he phoned to say he wouldn't be home for lunch as usual because Mrs. J. was coming in for counseling and it might take his entire lunch hour.

I didn't think anything of it until a few days ago when he told me not to bother preparing lunch for the next few weeks because Mrs. J. needs a lot of counseling, and she always brings a nice lunch for both of them when she comes in. (She started with one session a week, now it's five!)

Yesterday when my husband came home, I noticed liquor on his breath. I was shocked because he seldom drinks, and I asked him if he had been drinking. He didn't try to hide it. He said Mrs. J. had brought along a small bottle of wine to have with their lunch.

Abby, I'm not the typical jealous wife, but I'm beginning to wonder what's going on at those sessions.

What do you think?

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I hope he's not a rabbi, because those lunches sound anything but "kosher" to me.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter called us last month and announced that it was official—she and her boyfriend are living together.

We, her parents, are very unhappy about this arrangement. We like the young man very much. He is a college graduate (as is our daughter), attractive, successful and from a good family. (We are friendly with his parents.) Our daughter and her boyfriend are both 28, and there is no reason why they should not get married, but she made it plain that they have no such plans for the present.

The boy's parents don't like this setup any more than we do, but they are also helpless. People are asking us questions, and it is very embarrassing. What should we tell them?

EMBARRASSED

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Don't be embarrassed. Parents are not responsible for the actions of their 28-year-old children, which is what you should tell people.

DEAR ABBY: In response to the family with "a darling little 88-year-old Granny" who reads their mail, may I add a thought:

At her age, this dear woman probably doesn't receive much mail of her own. By now, most of her friends and probably many of her relatives have already passed on. And since she lives with her daughter, she probably doesn't even get bills of her own.

Reading the rest of the family's mail might be her way of feeling in the mainstream of life. Perhaps if the family saw to it that there was something at "mail call" each day for Granny, she wouldn't need to read someone else's mail to feel important.

Think about it. At 88, receiving a personally addressed card just might be the highlight of your day.

B. IN MEDFORD, N.J.

DEAR B.: Bless you for your empathetic attitude.

Ruthven, Zachary Fire Shutout, Two-Hit Gems

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

It's not clear whether Dick Ruthven left his heart in San Francisco, but the San Francisco Giants probably wish he had left his arm in Atlanta.

The 27-year-old right-hander went to high school in the East Bay town of Irvington, a few miles from San Francisco, and you can't blame him for calling Candlestick Park home sweet home.

Especially after he hurled the Atlanta Braves to a two-hit 2-0 victory Wednesday and raised his career record to 8-2 against San Francisco.

"I guess the Giants run into me when I'm going good," said Ruthven, who is only 31-54 against the rest of the National League. "But I don't get especially jacked up for the Giants—I wasn't a fan when I was going to school. In fact, I only went to a couple of games at Candlestick Park."

Ruthven, who had a no-hitter for six innings until Larry Herndon beat out a high hopper to shortstop leading off the seventh, pitched his masterpiece one night after teammates Preston Hanna and Adrian Devine blanked the Giants on one hit. Before the shutouts, Atlanta pitchers had allowed 54 runs in eight games.

Mets 2, Cards 0

While Zachry was limiting St. Louis to second-inning singles by Keith Hernandez and Jerry Morales, Bruce Boiesclaire drove in both runs, with a sacrifice fly in the first inning and a single in the third as the Mets completed a sweep of a threegame series. Zachry called it "my best game in the majors."

Dodgers 5, Reds 4

Rick Monday drove in four runs with a pair of homers and unbeaten Tommy John scattered nine hits for his third victory as Los Angeles salvaged the finale of an important early-season threegame series. The Reds' Joe Morgan tied a major league record for consecutive errorless games by a second baseman, completing his 89th flawless game. Morgan, who committed only five errors last season, matched the mark set by Baltimore's Jerry Adair in 1964-65.

Astros 2, Padres 1

Joaquin Andujar singled home a run and held San Diego to six hits in eight innings. The triumph was the Astros' fourth in a row and sixth in their last seven games after an 0-5 start. The Padres dropped their fourth straight, all at home, where they have not won yet this season.

Expos 3, Cubs 6

Ellis Valentine and Larry Parrish delivered two-run singles in the top of the ninth inning as Montreal rallied for four unearned runs against Chicago relief ace Bruce Sutter. The Expos loaded the bases with one out on two walks and an error. After a force at home, Valentine singled and reached second when left fielder Gene Cline's overcast the ball. Parrish followed with another two-run single. Larry Blittner homered for Chicago while Chris Speier connected for Montreal.

Favored in Tourney

STATESBORO, Ga. (AP) — Georgia is a slight favorite to capture the eighth annual Chris Schenkel Intercollegiate Golf Invitational tournament that begins Friday.

Coach Dick Copas' Bulldogs have won two of the five tournaments they entered this year and finished second in the others.

The 54-hole Schenkel tournament will be held on the 6,850-yard, par 72 Forest Heights Country Club. Each of the 21 teams will play five men, with the combined totals of the low four determining the winner.

Ohio State is second-seeded, followed by Wake Forest, Georgia Southern, North Carolina, Florida, Florida State, North Carolina State, Auburn and Louisiana State.

Other schools competing include Alabama, Maryland, South Carolina, East Tennessee, Memphis State, Marshall, Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana, Georgia Tech and Mississippi State.

Nets: Roving, Unappreciated And Unloved Clan Of Gypsies

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — There was an ironic twist to a couple of stories that hit the newspapers this week from different directions.

Out of Piscataway, N.J., came a report that two paychecks made out to members of the New Jersey Nets had bounced because of insufficient funds. Prodded, the Nets made them good on Monday.

Just another in the miseries of the National Basketball Association's orphaned franchise.

Across the river, in Uniondale, N.Y., fans crammed the Nassau Coliseum to watch the Islanders, rated the second best team in the National Hockey League, pursue their bid for the Stanley Cup.

The Islanders radiated confidence and class.

The Nets and Islanders: blood brothers, both owned by sports entrepreneur Roy Boe, yet as much alike as the brothers in the Biblical parable—the one who took his stake and squandered it on riotous living, the other who stayed home and faithfully performed his duties.

Does Boe have trouble reconciling himself with his "Prodigal Son?"

"Not in the least," says the lean, 47-year-old Ivy Leaguer who sacrificed his own all-around athletic talents to pursue a business career. "The Nets gave us a lot of thrills as champions of the American Basketball Association. Now, in the NBA, we are undergoing some heartaches."

While the Islanders have remained firm at their Nassau Coliseum base, playing almost every game before a sellout crowd of 15,317 for a season total of close to 700,000, the Nets have been roving, unloved and unappreciated gypsies.

They have moved from the ABA to the NBA, from Commack to Hempstead to Uniondale on Long Island to Piscataway, where they have been playing in Rutgers University's cramped gym pending construction of a permanent home in the Meadowlands Complex in New Jersey.

They finished last in their NBA division with a 24-58 record, once losing 16 games in a row. Their average attendance for the 1977-78 campaign was 5,647 a game.

With pro basketball salaries averaging $100,000 a year, such an operation looks like a ticket to the poor house.

Boe, a graduate of Yale University, joined his father in the food business, then branched out to promote a basement fabric shop into a dress enterprise which he sold for several million dollars.

In 1968, he paid $50,000 for the Westchester Bulls of the now defunct Atlantic Coast Football League, and moved the team to Long Island. In 1969, he and eight friends paid $1 million for the floundering Nets of the ABA. Three years later he headed a syndicate that bought the expansion Islander franchise of the NHL, paying $6 million to the league and $4 million to the Rangers for territorial rights.

"I am now a sports franchiser," he said. "It's a business, not a hobby with me. I get great satisfaction out of winning, out of artistic success. From a financial standpoint, with escalating salaries and problems, it is tough. I wouldn't recommend it."

TENNIS

HOUSTON — Top-seeded Brian Gottfried overcame the vicious spins of Terry Moor and rolled to a 6-4, 6-2 victory in a second-round match in the $175,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament at River Oaks Country Club.

Bob McAdoo Must Snap Scoring Slump Or Knicks Will Be Out

By ALEX SACHARE

AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Is it the finesse of Caldwell Jones? The muscle of Steve Mix? The wear and tear of a season that started six months ago?

Whatever the reason, unless New York center Bob McAdoo ends his shooting slump tonight, the Knicks will likely be in for a long evening against the Philadelphia 76ers in the third game of their best-of-seven National Basketball Association quarter-final playoff series.

"They had better show something different from what they showed in the first two games," said the 76ers' Julius Erving, referring to his team's easy 130-90 and 119-100 victories in the series' first two games.

The biggest difference must come from McAdoo, the NBA's No. 3 scorer with a 26.5 average who has shot 11 for 34 and scored just 22 points in the first two games.

"I'm in a scoring slump," said McAdoo, stating the obvious. But why?

"It's a combination of two factors," he said. "First there is the tough defense of Caldwell Jones. The other is that I've been taking shots from out of position."

Jones, a lean 7-foot-1 leaper, starts the game at center for Philadelphia and plays McAdoo head to head.

"Everywhere he goes on the court, I'm following," Jones said. "You just can't let him take those uncontested shots."

Organizational

Meeting For Softball Set

There will be an organizational meeting for the Women's Softball League April 30.

The 1:30 p.m. meeting, which will be held at the Murray-Calloway County park office, will discuss and organize the coming season. All teams interested in participating in the league must be represented. For more information, contact Richard Gee at 753-6800.

or he'll score 100 on you." When Jones leaves the game and muscular Darryl Dawkins takes over at center, the job of guarding McAdoo goes to 6-8 forward Steve Mix.

"He doesn't like the physical type of defense on him, so I'll bump him and shove him and crowd him," said Mix.

All of which means McAdoo is drawing constant attention, as he has all season. He is the key to the Knicks' offense and every opponent knows it — contain McAdoo and you'll beat the Knicks.

McAdoo thinks part of the problem lies with his teammates.

"I'm not getting the ball enough, but there's nothing I can do about it," he said. "When I run to get it, I'm out of position."

Whatever the cause of McAdoo's current problems, Jones knows that he and his teammates can't expect to stop New York's scoring ace forever.

The Knicks would like nothing better than such a "Big Mac Attack" tonight, or in Sunday afternoon's fourth game of the series. If it doesn't happen, chances of the series returning to Philadelphia are remote — and the Knicks know it.

"Bobby got us here," said Reed. "He's a pro. He's just got to weather this storm."

Philadelphia's game at New York is the only one on the NBA calendar tonight. The other series resume Friday night, with Seattle leading 1-0, at defending champion Portland; Milwaukee, trailing 1-0, at Denver, and San Antonio at Washington in a series tied 1-1.

Jeff Leeper Enjoying Super Tennis Season

By TONY WILSON
MSU Sports Publicity
Murray State Tennis Coach Bennie Purcell believes it takes at least five years for anyone to even approach the level of a complete tennis player. If that's true, then Jeff Leeper is right on schedule.

A 5-foot-8 senior from Paducah, Leeper owns a sparkling 16-7 record at the No. 5 singles spot for Murray State's men's tennis team, helping it to a 17-6 season mark.

He didn't take up tennis seriously until his junior year in high school, but progressed quickly, playing on Tilghman's tennis team as a junior, then compiling a 21-1 mark at No. 1 singles there his senior year.

After one year at Paducah Community College, he transferred to Murray, where he was 14-8 at No. 5 in 1976, 10-12 at No. 3 last year. His record this season can be attributed partly, according to Leeper, to his improved net game.

"My volleying is quite a bit better, so I'm much steadier this year," said Leeper. That's probably why he and teammate Chris Leonard hold the best doubles record — 11-7 at No. 3 — on the squad.

"I used to prefer by far singles over doubles," Leeper said, "but now I'd say that I don't favor one over the other. I'm much more satisfied this year with my overall game."

"He's probably the best doubles player on the team," says Purcell. "He's improved so much since he first came to Murray that he's really not the same player."

Leeper started slowly in singles this year, dropping his first three matches. But he won his next four — including victories over Kentucky and Eastern Kentucky players — lost to Indiana State, then won his next seven.

That upped his record to 11-4 before he fell to the No. 5 player from Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, the nation's No. 1-ranked Division II team. But he has since won four of his last five.

Purcell feels that this may be the best team he's had in five years. "I thought I had a very strong team three years ago, (won 12, lost 11) but seven matches were rained out that we were in the process of winning, and things just didn't materialize as I had hoped."

The Racers play 9 matches in the next 11 days before the Ohio Valley Conference championships May 3 and 4 in Murfreesboro, Tenn.

TENNIS

NICE, France — Argentina's unseeded Jose-Luis Clerck upset seventh seed Antonio Zugarelli of Italy 6-3, 6-1 in the second round of the Nice Open International tennis tournament.

SUPER SEASON — Jeff Leeper, a Paducah native who plays the number five singles for the Racers tennis team, is having a super season. He's won 16 of his 23 matches.

Free Agent Facts Don't Support Claims Of Kuhn

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn says the free agent system is dangerous because the strong are getting stronger. Only the facts don't seem to support his contention.

— Fact: Of the 14 top players signed as free agents for the 1978 season, seven went to clubs with records above .500, six went to clubs with records below .500 and one went to a club with a .500 average.

— Fact: Of those 14 top players, only two — Doc Medich and Bruce Bochte — left teams with sub-.500 records, meaning most of the weak teams weren't getting any weaker.

— In the past year, (free agency) has been used by the strongest teams to make themselves even stronger," Kuhn said Tuesday in Atlanta.

On Wednesday, through spokesman Art Berke, Kuhn attempted to elaborate on that position. He cited the recent improvements made by the Yankees, Texas, Boston and California as the best examples for his concern. He also pointed out that in the last two years, 28 of the 50 free agents chosen by more than two teams signed with the Yankees, California, Boston, Texas and the Chicago White Sox.

Of the 1977 division winners beside the Yankees, Kansas City picked up one free agent in two years, back-up infielder Jerry Terrell. Los Angeles took one, reliever Terry Forster, and Philadelphia has taken one, first baseman Richie Hebner. Cincinnati, the best team in baseball in recent years, has stood pat.

Another Yankee Ready To Cry, A's Still Surprise In West

By BERT ROSENTHAL

AP Sports Writer
Oakland Manager Bobby Winkles will settle for all the gray hairs his young, low-salaried A's will give him this season...if they keep winning.

New York Yankees Manager Billy Martin, on the other hand, probably is ready to tear out his hair over the performance of his veteran, highly paid world champions...especially relief specialist Rich Gossage.

The A's, who under penurious owner Charles O. Finley have unloaded virtually all their players from the 1972, 1973 and 1974 World Series winners, were not expected to be contenders this year.

But so far they have been the early-season surprises of the major leagues.

Wednesday, they raised their record to 8-3 and moved within one game of first-place Kansas City in the American League West, beating the Minnesota Twins 6-5 in 11 innings.

The Yankees, AL champions the past two years, fell to 5-6, three games behind frontrunning Detroit in the East Division, losing to the Toronto Blue Jays 4-3. The winning run scoring on Gossage's second throwing error in the ninth inning.

"I'm sick, I'm almost ready to cry," said the downtrodden, dejected Gossage, loser of his third-straight game since signing a reported $2.75 million, six-year free agent contract with the Yankees after the 1977 season.

In the only other AL game Wednesday, Ron Jackson drove in six runs with two doubles and a single, powering the California Angels to an 11-2 rout of the Seattle Mariners. Two games were rained out — Detroit at Cleveland and Milwaukee at Boston.

ALCOHOLISM

a health column from the
Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration
U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

How Can I Tell If I Have a Drinking Problem?

It isn't always easy to spot a drinking problem, especially in yourself. An alcohol problem can't be measured by how many drinks you have each day, how many years you've been drinking heavily, where you drink, or how much you can hold. Nor does it have anything to do with the kind of alcohol you typically use. The "strictly beer" drinker can have an alcohol problem as safely as the person who favors wine or hard liquor.

Ask yourself, instead, how and why you drink and what alcohol is doing to you. If you sometimes get drunk when you fully intend to stay sober, if you no longer get as much pleasure from drinking as you once did, if your reliance on drinking has become progressively greater, you may be heading for the illness called "alcoholism."

Think, too, about how seriously alcohol is affecting the basic realities of your life: your health and physical safety, your emotional well-being, your family and personal relationships, your work, your financial situation. The more drinking is interfering with these areas of your life, the more likely you are to have an alcohol problem.

If drinking has become a problem for you, you have lots of company. Alcoholism is an illness suffered by some 10 million Americans and does not discriminate by age, sex, race, or income. But most importantly, it is a treatable illness, and recovery is possible regardless of the severity of the symptoms. Like most illnesses, however, the sooner you get help, the better your chances for recovery and the easier it will be.
